

Media Advisory

June 7, 2017 – (Regina, SK) – The Saskatchewan Science Centre is getting ready to do something that it has never done before – stay open for 24 straight hours! From June 9th at 10:00am to June 10th at 10:00am, the Science Centre will have new activities starting every hour all through the night.

24 Hours of Science, presented by SaskCentral, has something for everyone: special workshops for school groups, unique activities for families, a licensed evening feature-length movie for adults, yoga at dawn, and more!

Everything is included with the admission price during this special event. The $24 all-ages, all-access pass includes Science Centre General Admission, admission to the visiting summer exhibition BODY WORLDS RX, admission to all films and movies in the Kramer IMAX Theatre (on a first-come, first-served basis) and all of the special programming and workshops that are taking place. That's like paying $1 per hour for fun, family-friendly, and educational content. Stay all night long, or just catch up on the latest IMAX movies!
